Q. Do you believe leaders are made or born?

A. Watching all of my daughters little friends grow up into young adults, I truly think we come out the way we come out. The bossy little girls on the pre-school playground became student body presidents in high school and the little ones who were sassy in elementary school are still strong outspoken adults. As parents, we teach manners and social graces but leadership gifts seem to be an innate force embedded in our DNA.

Q. Where do you like to go get away?

A. Punta de Mita, Mexico

Q. How do you measure success?

A. By a peaceful night's sleep

Q. What film have you watched the most?

A. The Quarrel written by David Brandes, hands down, watched it at least a dozen times.
